HAWAIIAN
MILK.Leading Stock Man
Talks About Its Quality.DAIRIES SHOULD BE INSPECTED

Various Practical Suggestions
Looking to a Purer Dairy
Service and Supply.

Asked for his opinion about Hawaiian milk and the legislation it needs, a leading farmer and stockraiser of the Kailhi district, who declines to have his name mentioned, said:

Our dairy business is one of our most profitable and most neglected of our small industries here in Hawaii. We can have fodder all the year round, while in the East they have it but a few months.

It will surprise anyone who carries on a rapid succession of planting sorghum to see how much desirable fodder can be obtained from a small area of land.

We notice with pleasure a small sorghum patch off King street, Kailhi, planted by Judge Wilcox. This patch is less than one-half acre, produces six crops per annum (volunteer and planting) say two tons of green, well-seeded sorghum to a crop, or thirty tons per annum, or sixty tons per acre. Of course, the land is fertilized and well irrigated.

Our Board of Health is now doing all it knows how in securing good milk to the public, but the board has the cart before the horse and does not take any pains to find out much in relation to the dairy the milk comes from. The milk may be charged with typhoid fever and other filthy germs for aught they know.

It should be recommended to our present Legislature to frame a law, as a means of procuring a purer supply of milk, that all milkmen licensed by the Board of Health should be obliged to report the quantity of milk they supply and whence it is obtained; also that physicians, in their certificates of death of children under two years of age from certain specified diseases, should state what milkman has supplied the family or child. An inspector could then be sent to examine the cows from which the supply was obtained to see whether any disease was prevalent among them. Increased attention to the source from which the milk is taken has become necessary, since it is found that cattle suffering from tuberculosis or consumption may transmit the disease to human beings.

In many places milkmen are required, on application for a license to sell milk, to file a statement of details of their business, in which they give their exact location, the quantity of land, the number of animals, the quantity of milk, the nature of the feed, the number of persons employed, the real ownership, etc. Then an officer, a veterinarian, visits the dairy, examines the animals, feed, water and surroundings, and not until a favorable report is had from him can the milkman even offer his milk for sale.

We know it to be a fact that a pail of milk standing ten minutes where it will take the scent of a strong smelling stable or any other odor will get a taint that will not leave it. A few puffs from a pipe or cigar will scent all the milk in a room, and a smoking lamp will do the same. Many persons are not aware of the extreme delicacy of milk or the importance of giving it particular attention. Milk vessels should never be used more than once without first washing them thoroughly with strong, clean soaps and a brush and then rinsing and scalding them in boiling water and drying them in the sun.

Milk as human food is sadly undeveloped by our native Hawaiians. Dr. St. D. G. Walters would have it distinctly understood that the mortality among children which carries off one-fifth of all who are born before they have completed their first year, is not as we have been taught at funerals, the work of Divine Providence, but mainly the result of ignorance.

The terrible typhoid epidemic in Oakland a short time ago is a solemn warning to the people of this city. Life is held very cheaply when consumers will not take the trouble to ascertain whether the milk they give their children will sustain life or not.

Many of our prominent and wealthy parents (I am sadly disgusted of hearing from our press about our best and prominent people) expend thousands of dollars on their horses and dogs to obtain the best blood, and yet feed their own children with milk that a calf could not be raised on.

To persons coming from older and better regulated communities it seems remarkable that in this city there has been no supervision of the dairies on milk production, and in the absence of official supervision it is difficult for the average consumer to ascertain which is bad and which is good milk that is offered for sale.

There is no calling that requires more stamina or integrity of purpose in escaping from the temptation that hourly besets the milkman. He has a telephone message from Mrs. So-and-So to supply her with cream for her tea party, perhaps, which he can only take from his customers' milk, or an extra gallon of milk, when he can only do it by watering.

First class dairies cannot compete in prices with milk from the Japanese, Chinese and other slums. No more than the Hawaiian hotel can compete with China restaurants in prices, and the housekeeper who is saving fifty cents per month on a quart daily should not be surprised in having her medical bills increasing rapidly.

Housekeepers should give the matter their personal attention, or until our coming municipal authority takes the matter in hand.

New Construction Company.

The Hawaiian Engineering and Construction Company, Limited, filed articles of incorporation yesterday with Treasurer Lansing. The incorporators were C. H. Atherton, Clarence H. Cooke, Frederick J. Amweg, William R. Castle, Jr., Philip M. Lansdale and Philip L. Weaver. The company is capitalized for $10,000, with a provision to increase the same to a sum not exceeding $200,000. The company will engage in the general construction business. The officers are: President, Charles H. Atherton; secretary and treasurer, William R. Castle, Jr.

A priest who had delivered what seemed to him an excellent and striking sermon was anxious to ascertain its effect on his flock. "Was the sermon today to y'r likin', Pat?" he inquired of one of them. "Troth, y'r reverence, it was a grand sermon intirely," said Pat, with such genuine admiration that his reverence felt moved to investigate further. "Was there any part of it more than another that seemed to take hold of ye?" he inquired. "Well, now, as ye are for axin' me, begorra, I'll tell ye. What tuk houlit ay me most was y'r reverence's perseverance—the way ye went over the same thing agin and agin and agin."

HOLE IN THE LUNGS

There are thousands of men and women, as well as ever, with holes in their lungs: consumption stopped.

Consumption stopped is consumption cured. What does it?

Some change in the way of life and Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

With the emulsion, give some attention to circumstances: change from a dark damp close room to a sunny dry airy one; from city to country; from hard to an easy life; indoors to out.

A hole in the lungs once healed is no worse than a too-tight waist or waistcoat.

Take the emulsion, and give it a chance to heal the wound.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.
